> See, the enemy is puffed up; his desires are not upright— but the righteous person will live by his faithfulness.
>
> — Habakkuk 2:4

Book: Old Testament / Habakkuk
Topics: faith, faithfulness, life, reliability, righteousness

Interpretation:
Habakkuk 2:4 presents us with a fundamental truth. This particular verse is one of the most frequently cited biblical references in the New Testament. The evangelists Matthew, Mark, Luke, and Paul cite it in their writings as the central argument for justification by faith.

The Pride of the Wicked

The first half of the verse says, "See, the enemy is puffed up his desires are not upright." In this case, Habakkuk is referring to the behavior of the wicked, those who are not in a right relationship with God and instead rely on their own wisdom and resources. Habakkuk warns that because of their arrogance, they are subject to judgment.

We find many examples throughout the Bible of people who were proud and confident in their own wisdom. For example, King Nebuchadnezzar took credit for the success and greatness of his kingdom, not recognizing that everything was provided by God.

The righteous shall live by faith

The second part of the verse is the key to the entire passage: "but the righteous person will live by his faithfulness." This statement emphasizes the importance of faith in the life of a believer. Unlike the wicked, the righteous believe in God and recognize their need for Him in their lives. It is this faith that allows the righteous to live according to the will of God.

Faith is not just believing in God, but trusting Him and living according to His commandments. In the New Testament, Jesus teaches us the importance of believing in His sacrifice and trusting Him for our salvation.

———

Attention! This is one of the possible interpretations based on the comments of famous theologians, which may differ from each other. If the interpretation is taken from other languages, then there may be a distortion of meaning when translating the language. Matthew 7:7-8

> Though the fig tree does not bud and there are no grapes on the vines, though the olive crop fails and the fields produce no food, though there are no sheep in the pen and no cattle in the stalls, yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will be joyful in God my Savior.
>
> — Habakkuk 3:17-18

Book: Old Testament / Habakkuk
Topics: Fruitfulness, harvest, joy, Salvation, worship

Interpretation:
The book of Habakkuk is one of the shortest in the Old Testament, but it is no less profound and significant. In this prophet we find a call to reflect on the presence of God in the midst of adversity and suffering, and the verse before us is a perfect example of this.

In Habakkuk 3:17-18, the prophet describes a situation of extreme need and deprivation. However, despite the apparent desolation, the prophet speaks of an attitude of trust and hope in God.

In this sense, the verse can be interpreted as a call to faith in difficult times. Although all sources of sustenance seem to have disappeared, the prophet insists that God is still present and active in the lives of his people. This teaching is of great relevance in our times marked by uncertainty, economic crisis, and social and political conflicts.

But how can we find this joy in God? One of the best ways is through prayer and reading God's word. Through prayer, we can directly approach God and ask Him to give us the strength and wisdom we need to move forward. And by meditating on God's Word, we can remember the promises He has made to us and gain the fortitude we need to face life's challenges.

_____

Attention! This is one of the possible interpretations based on the comments of famous theologians, which may differ from each other. If the interpretation is taken from other languages, then there may be a distortion of meaning when translating the language. Matthew 7:7-8

> The Sovereign Lord is my strength; he makes my feet like the feet of a deer, he enables me to tread on the heights.
> — Habakkuk 3:19

Book: Old Testament / Habakkuk
Topics: blessing, equipment, strength

Interpretation:
Habakkuk 3:19 is a Bible verse that tells us about the strength that God gives us in our lives, giving us confidence and security in ourselves. The Bible always talks about God as our protector and our rock that we can rely on at all times. This verse in particular highlights the idea that God helps us walk on high places, and this is something that we should think deeply about and understand.

The first part of the verse tells us that the Lord is our strength. This means that it is God who gives us the strength to face difficult situations in life and overcome them successfully. By viewing God as our strength, we mean that He is our support and support at all times, that we can trust His word and His promise, according to Psalm 46:1: "God is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in trouble."

The second part of the verse shows us that God gives us feet like a deer, allowing us to walk on high places. This reference is understood as the fact that God gives us the ability to overcome obstacles and trials that come our way in life. God gives us the ability to overcome difficulties and come out victorious. This does not mean that we will not face problems or difficult situations, but that we will have the strength to overcome them and move forward.

_____

Attention! This is one of the possible interpretations based on the comments of famous theologians, which may differ from each other. If the interpretation is taken from other languages, then there may be a distortion of meaning when translating the language. Matthew 7:7-8